

IMMANUEL SCHOOLS SELECTS JOE BERNARDI AS DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS

Immanuel Schools has announced the selection of Joe Bernardi as Athletic Director.

“We are excited to add Joe to our Athletic Department team. He is a man of God who brings character, integrity, and a passion for leading our student athletes” said Ryan Wood, Immanuel Schools Superintendent.

Joe Bernardi’s athletic accomplishments are well known throughout our valley and nationally. After completing four years as a member of the Fresno State Bulldog football team, Joe went on to coach at the University of Tennessee, University of Oregon, Fresno State and San Jose State. Joe played in four bowl games during his career at Fresno State. While at the University of Oregon he coached in the Rose Bowl and the first College Football National Championship game. Oregon also had a Heisman Trophy winner, Marcus Mariota, during his tenure. Twelve of Joe’s players have gone on to play in the NFL.

Joe will draw on his experience in the SEC, Pac-12, Mountain West conferences to lead Immanuel Schools athletics to the level of excellence we are pursuing.

Go Eagles!
